

Heritage Colours

The Council does not have an official heritage colour scheme.

Owners of District Plan Heritage Inventory listed buildings or those located in the Old Town Conservation Zone need to use colours appropriate to the age of the building. You can discuss this with the Council's planners at any time.

Resene Paints have a good heritage colour chart.

Other paint suppliers also have heritage colours, and all suppliers can produce paint tinted to match any sample you provide, such as a flake of original paint.

Aalto Colour specialises in heritage colours.

Paint suppliers and others such as architects can provide advice on colour schemes. This can be especially helpful when there are details and features which should be in contrasting colours.
